Fall Coronet!

Fall Coronet is such a special time. Not only is it the end of the camping event season, but it also means Cynagua will have new Heirs! The crucible style tournament was requested by Us so that each fighter would be tested to show not only their prowess, but their honor and chivalry. We are confident that each contender AND non-contender will fight to the best of their ability and do honor to their Consorts and themselves.

But, that doesn't mean We are done yet. There are still feasts to attend, where we will devour amazing dishes prepared by clever feastocrats, and bardic pieces to appreciate, and A&S entries to be amazed by...

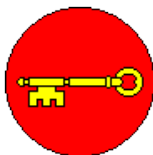

And, don't forget 12th Night where Our new King and Queen will be crowned!

We look forward to each time We can be with the populace because each and every one of you are dear to Us. Thank you for being YOU!

Forever-in Service and Gratitude,

Walerich and Catriona

Prince and Princess of Cynagua

Archery activities for Coronet

If all has gone well, you should have no trouble finding the archery range this weekend. At this writing we do not have an exact schedule, but there are several activities planned. Most of Saturday will be free shooting, with the exception of the youth Popinjay shoot. This will be a 90 minute block in the middle of the day. The Popinjay shoot is open to youth 15 and under. It is a prize shoot with a simple format. As at all times, children must be accompanied to the range by a responsible adult. The first 30 minutes will be warm-ups and novice instruction, followed by an hour of shooting. Instruction for novices of all ages is available during free shooting time, and loaner gear is available. Targets for the seasonal shoot, and royal rounds are available upon request. An IKAC round is possible, but give yourself two hours to complete it. The crucible tournament may make it difficult for some to attend the range on Saturday, so we will be open for some time on Sunday morning.

Words from the Minister

For the past three years it has been my privilege and pleasure to hold the post of Minister of the Bow for Cynagua. It has been my job to promote archery activities, a job which I approach with a certain measure of glee. I like shooting things.

On Sunday at Fall Coronet I will pass on my office, three years, to the day, from stepping up, not because I am weary of the task, but because someone else would like to see what they can do with it. I am, by no means, finished in the field.

I am also the Archery Champion of this realm, and it is my duty to find a successor. With the assistance of the Shire of Windy Meads, I will hold a grand archery tournament on Sunday, the fifteenth day of November.

The format for shooting was published in the July Vox Cynaguae. It is my intention to test each archer on the short and the long, the slow and the quick, and by this we will know who best can defend the Honor of Cynagua. Tally Ho!

Shoot straight! While the stag may only laugh at you, the boar will be less amused.

Edward le Kervere

From the Copper Spoon Minister

Why do I do this? Not write for the Vox, but cook medieval recipes? Doing it not just in my nice modern kitchen, but at events, sometimes using earthenware pots and pans over a fire which is NOT propane and controlled by a knob?

True, I could go to an event, and live off Pop Tarts, and sandwiches, and supermarket fried chicken, or whatever. But why would I do that? After a nice long day, a hot meal can really improve your outlook. And when you get right down to it, the SCA is about learning things about the medieval period. A Pop Tart says nothing about what we do. But if you take the time to learn how to cook some period dish—that can teach you a great deal. If you take the time to learn how they MADE that dish, you learn even more. Economics, how castles were organized, the reality of seasonal cooking, even why they ate when they did...and that's just to start. Not too many single areas of study can teach you so much.

Normally, for my time as your Copper Spoon Minister, I'll be using this space to post the previous winning recipe (with the permission of the redactor). Since is the start of my term, and I don't have a winner yet, I'll post a favorite of mine (and my wife's). It's great for potlucks, and there are versions of this in French, Italian, and Spanish period sources, but this one is one of the easiest. It's even got a modern Spanish equivalent.

Capirotada (Livre fort excellent de Cuisine, Timothy Tomasik and Ken Albala trans.)

To make a capirotada, take a partridge and chop it up finely. Slice your bread into sops and put a layer of them into your dish to top with a layer of chopped partridge. Continue making layers of sops and partridge until you dish is full. Then take some beef broth in which you have boiled five or six garlic cloves. Pour this broth into your dish and allow it to stew a bit over the fire. Some cooks add rich cheese.

The same reference has a second recipe for the same dish, that is largely the same, except it calls for adding “fine spices” and cinnamon, and a layer of cooked egg yolks that have been fried in butter. And it calls for using the meat of chicken thighs and wings.

So to create a rather simple, tasty dish , one that was almost perfectly designed to use up leftovers--

- The legs, thighs, and wings from a rotisserie chicken, meat removed from the bone and chopped

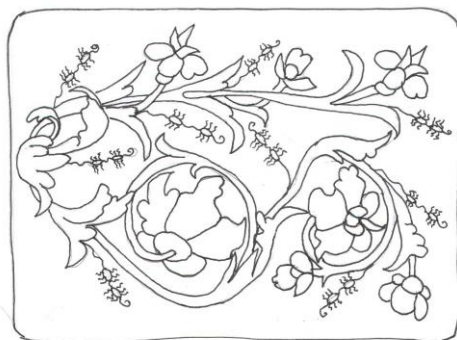

- Rich cheese, sliced or shredded (rich cheese meant an aged and tasty cheese, and in this case, one that melts well is best. Provolone is great here, or mahon, tallegio, brie, even in a pinch monterey jack. They're not period, but you're after an effect here, and the cheese will lose some of it's character in any case—adding a little shaved parmesan cheese to another is pretty good too—more flavor.

- half a loaf of good quality bread, sliced 1/4" thick—perfect use for a loaf going stale. Quality counts!

- 4 cups beef broth, best you can find—Better Than Bullion works well

- 6 cloves garlic, peeled

Start the broth simmering with the cloves of garlic. Meanwhile, slice the bread, and layer the bread (sops), the chicken, and a goodly layer of cheese in a tall baking dish. Repeat, topping the whole thing with one final layer of bread. Ladle the broth over making sure the entire dish is well soaked. Cover, and bake at 350 for half hour to one hour. This dish works VERY well in an earthenware dish, covered with a lid, and placed over a low fire—it can cook even longer that way. Perfect as a dish to have simmering so you can eat as soon as Court is over!

ART SUBMISSIONS

This hand tooled and painted leather book cover is 1 of 2 created by Robear de Perceval for the princess's Herald, one travel, one for home.

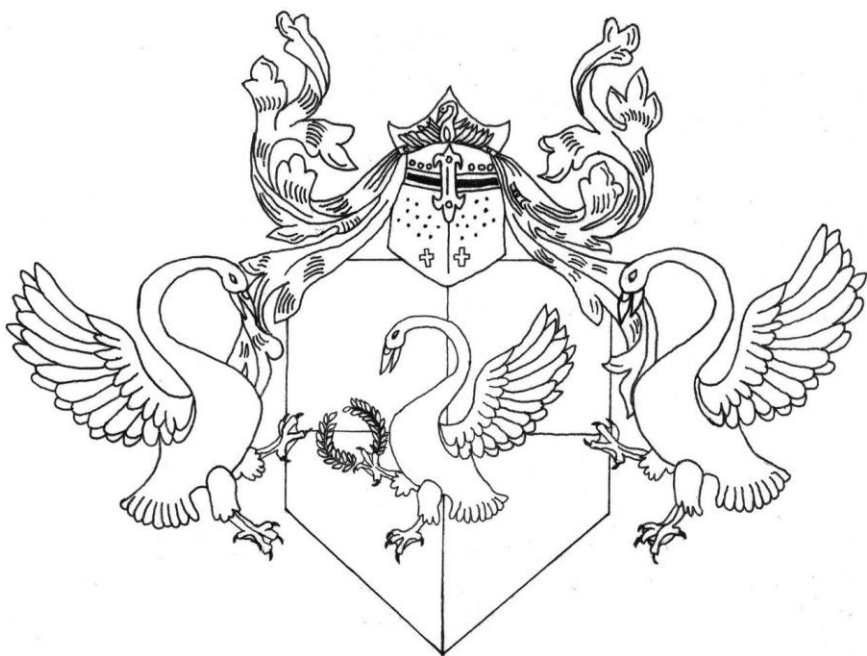

This is a picture was taken at Pennsic War a few years ago. I took the picture and edited it to look like story book pictures from my childhood. These are the Armies of the Western Alliance at Pennsic. This army was made up of all Kingdoms West of the Mississippi River. There at the head of the forces stands our beloved Western General, Sir Ajax.

Submission by Dave Hendrix, aka Marcus Livius Varus of the Horsemen

When fire comes sweeping o'er the fields and wood to devastate the land by drought made sere and kinfolk lose their homes and livelihood, then tempted we may be to live in fear.
But know this land has heroes bred and formed who face such fear and rise above their fate;
they through the ashes dig where flames have stormed to build again; they number with the great.
Now winter comes; the seasons turn once more;
the skies are knitting clouds to bring down rain:
unknown the challenges that lie in store,
and yet with strength Cynagua will remain.
Her people reach to care for each, their own;
the Swan flies true, her strength and valor known.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Cynagua Archery Championship

Sunday November 15, 2015

Davis, CA

Join us at the shire of Windy Meads for a grand archery tournament to determine the next Cynaguan Archery Champion!

At this point there are four shooting events planned:

Pop-up Targets: They present from behind a blind at random intervals. The targets are small animals, at 15 to 25 yards. This event is timed.

A Hunt in the Woods: These are 3D animals of various sizes, on a field archery course. The ranges will be unmarked, usually between 15 and 40 yards.

Archer's Heart Duel: This is an elimination list. Archers compete in pairs. The first to hit the heart wins. This begins at 20 yards and the distance may increase each round.

Shooting to the Mark: The target pylon is placed between 100 and 150 yards. Shots that land near the pylon are scored with a measuring rope. You may want to make sure your bow can reach this distance.

Children are welcome to shoot, and must be accompanied by a parent or guardian when on the archery range.

To shoot for the championship you must live within the border of Cynagua and be a subscribing member of SCA Inc. You must have reached your 18th birthday. Contenders for the championship must bring their own bow and arrows.

All archers are welcome to shoot at the event, and all others are welcome to come and cheer for their favorites. Some loaner equipment will be available. A separate list will be held at the hearts duel for non-contenders.

A hot lunch will be provided for all attending. A vegetarian option will be available.

There are flush privies and potable water on site. If it rains, the championship events must still be shot, there is a plan in place to provide some shelter and fires at points around the park. Check the forecast and dress appropriately, layers are recommended.

Civil Unrest

Saturday April 23, 2016

As summer comes to an end, we find ourselves contemplating cool days and long cozy nights by the fire. There will be feasting, and celebrations. The chance to put your feet up and take a long drink from your favorite horn as the skies grow dim and the weather grows cold. Autumn is the time to store up for winter, there's lots of work to do around the home place so you can prepare for winter ...and being trapped indoors eating the same fare over and over while the children shriek and whine and the loved one frets over trivialities. Long grey months of morose brooding, sharpening swords with no one to swing them at, the longboat in dry dock waiting for spring.. We understand how difficult it can be, winter. When this winter gets rough, close your eyes and dream. Dream of the earth waking, of the sun returning... and of the riches and wealth which will be bursting forth from your neighbors lands... dream of raiding... and keep sharpening your sword.
