Article I - The Law

Section 1 - Source of Law

The Word of the Crown is Law. Proclamations of the Crown of the West are the law of the Kingdom from the moment they are spoken, but do not rescind existing law until published in The Page. No provision or changes to law shall be in effect, nor shall the subjects of the Kingdom be responsible for such provision, until such proclamation and publication have taken place. All proclamations are subject to the governing documents and the formal decisions of the Board of Directors of the Society for Creative Anachronism (SCA) and the laws of the modern political entities having jurisdiction within the various parts of the Kingdom.

Section 2 - Amendments

Amendments to these laws shall be presented as changes, additions, or deletions to specific articles or sections. Other proclamations shall have effect only during the reign of the Crown making them.

Section 3 - Publication

Proclamations of previous reigns not incorporated herein are rescinded. The Laws of the West Kingdom shall be published in unchangeable formats on the Kingdom web site. Law changes must appear on the web site within 30 days of being announced in court. All law changes must be published in The Page within 60 days of being announced in court, space permitting. In the case of newsletter space constraints, a URL to the location on the official Kingdom website showing the whole text of the change, with a notation of the Article(s) and Section(s) being changed, and published within the 60-day deadline, will be deemed to meet this requirement.

Section 4 - Principality Law

Section 4.1

Within any Principality of the Kingdom of the West, the word of the Coronet of the Principality is Law, subject to the formal decisions of the Board of Directors of the Society for Creative Anachronism as embodied in the Corpora, the laws of the Kingdom of the West, and the discretion of the Crown of the West.

Section 4.2

Any changes to the laws of a Principality must be first submitted to the Crown of the West in writing and receive Its signature before being proclaimed. The proclamations of the Coronet and the laws of a Principality are subject to the same restrictions as are those of the Crown and the laws of the Kingdom as defined in Section 1, 2, and 3 above, with the following exception: The laws of the Mists, Cynagua, and Oertha need only be published in The Page.

Section 2.2

Should either or both of the Royal Heirs fail to intend to reign, and sufficient evidence of this failure be presented to the Crown, a Curia Regis shall be called to consider the matter.

Section 2.3

Article IV - Arms and Orders

Section 1 - Awards

Section 1.1

The sole power to create Patents, Grants, and Awards of Arms rests with the Crown. The Crown hereby grants to the Coronet of each Principality the right to offer Awards of Arms to subjects of the Principality, and to offer a Patent of Arms and the title of Viscount or Viscountess to those who have served the Principality in the capacity of Sovereign or Consort for a full reign. The Crown hereby grants to the Baron and Baroness of the Palatine Barony of the Far West the right to offer Award of Arms to subjects of the Palatine Barony of the Far West. The Crown specifically reserves the right to grant Grants and Patents of Arms and create Peerages for any other reason and title unto Themselves.

Section 1.2

It is the responsibility of the Crown or Coronet giving Arms or other awards to ensure that the type of Arms or award, the date given, and the full name of the recipient is published in the Order of Precedence within nine months of the date the Arms or award was given. Awards not published within this time limit must be reaffirmed by the Royalty in an official court and published within nine months of that reaffirmation.

Section 1.3 – Royal Signatures on Scrolls

Section 1.3.1

Never, under any circumstances, shall the signatures of the Sovereign or Consort, be forged on any scroll or other document.

Section 1.3.2

Purpose: As our population becomes more mobile, it has become increasingly difficult to obtain royal signatures on scrolls. While there is always the option of having the current Royalty sign instead of Their predecessors who granted the award, it is often more meaningful to the recipient to have it signed by the royals who bestowed the award; as such, a library of royal signatures for those prior royals who are willing to provide an example will be maintained by the office of the College of Heralds.

Section 1.3.3

The signatures of any previous Sovereigns or previous Consorts (Royal Peers), may never be forged on any document, with the exception of reproducing royal signatures on award scrolls with the explicit permission of the Royal Peers in accordance with this section.

Section 1.3.4

This program is completely voluntary, and participating royals may enroll or unenroll at any time. In terms of enrollment, the Royal Peers may place any limitation on the utilization of their signature, e.g. the individual Royal Peers must be contacted prior to utilizing the library signature by a scribe. In the case of a Royal Peer who is pre-deceased prior to the enactment of this law, the deceased Royal Peer's signature may be enrolled in the library by the spouse (legal spouse, common law spouse or legal domestic partner) of the Royal Peer.

Section 1.3.5

The library will include contact information for each Royal Peer as well as instructions on the circumstances in which their signature may be utilized, including:

The Royal Peer's name

Examples of the Royal Peer's signature

Contact information (email, social media, phone)

Their criteria for the signature being used including post-mortem instructions

Section 1.3.6

Method: Once a scribe has made a good faith attempt at contacting a Royal Peer, the scribe may request access to the library of signatures and if the Royal Peer cannot sign, the scribe or recipient may request that the herald make an example signature available. If this request meets the requirements of the Royal Peer, the College of Heralds will grant the scribe an example of the signature requested and the authority to sign the signature. The Scribe can then trace the appropriate signature onto the scroll.
